SECP NEWS

PAKISTAN: REGULATOR MOOTS COMPREHENSIVE INSURANCE REFORM ROADMAP

The Securities and Exchange Commission of Pakistan (SECP), the country's financial regulatory agency, has proposed a comprehensive roadmap for the reform and development of the insurance industry in the country. The potential areas for reform include regulations, operational challenges in the life and non-life insurance sectors, market development, insurance education and awareness, and technology development.

In a statement, SECP said that globally, it has been observed that the business of insurance is experiencing dramatic changes that pose unprecedented challenges both to insurers and regulators. There is a need to seek greater efficiency through organisational and operational restructuring and a stronger focus on core competencies. There is also a need to preclude greater financial risks and uncertainties in the minds of various stakeholders.

Speaking at the unveiling last week of the roadmap, Insurance Commissioner Mohammed Asif Arif said that the pace of development is prompting numerous regulatory and market reforms. There is a compelling need to deliberate on policy and regulatory issues to accommodate market changes and bring the local insurance industry in line with international standards.

According to the SECP report, the operational challenges facing the industry relate to paid-up capital requirements, retention levels, pre-qualifications by various public organisations, cancellation of policy after expiry of risk, and the central bank State Bank of Pakistan's restriction on the issuance of insurance policies denominated in US dollars.

In life insurance, the challenges faced include the professional competency of insurance agents, information sharing among life insurers, regulatory support for automation of processes, investment portfolio transparency, the product approval process, voluntary pension products, rejuvenation of the State Life Insurance Corporation and regulation of postal life insurance.

Describing the country's insurance sector as underdeveloped, the report said that the insurance density in Pakistan was US$8 in 2012 compared with US$59 in India and US$60 in Indonesia. The penetration rate has hovered at around 0.7 percent in Pakistan for the past decade, one of the lowest in the region.

The roadmap was prepared by a committee with diverse representation from the insurance, banking and business segments. There are 50 insurers in Pakistan comprising nine life insurers, 40 non-life insurers and one non-life reinsurer; 10 insurance brokers, of which four are foreign and six are local; and 244 authorised insurance surveying companies.

akistan introduced new takaful rules in 2012, allowing the use of takaful windows, which enables insurers to offer sharia-compliant and conventional products side by side, provided client money is segregated. However, the takaful companies mounted a legal challenge claiming that the rules gave conventional insurers an unfair advantage, leaving the industry in limbo.

In May 2014 an agreement reached with the country's takaful companies under which conventional insurers will have to allocate PKR50 million (US$506,100) in capital to their takaful window operations, from no capitalisation requirement in the original rules,

The takaful rules will be applicable after a three-month period and the regulator would also amend them to allow takaful firms to co-insure risks alongside conventional players, which the initial rules had forbidden.

Takaful has been operated by dedicated Islamic insurance players without conventional competitors in Pakistan since the first rules where introduced in 2005, but regulators have been keen to increase insurance penetration. Takaful's share of the total insurance market is estimated at less than 5% and the entry of conventional players would help boost this figure.

Mr. Muhammad Asif Arif, SECP's Commissioner of Insurance, told the Dawn newspaper that due to their resources, capacity and reach, conventional insurance companies could venture into untapped areas and increase insurance penetration which at the moment is a 0.9% of the country's GDP. "With conventional insurers entering into takaful business, the share of the takaful industry in Pakistan can go up to 15% in the next three to four years," he added.

Conventional insurers which have window takaful operations must meet Sharia-compliant requirements including appointing a Shariah Adviser, Sharia Compliance Officer, External Shariah Compliance Auditor and a fit and proper Head of Window Takaful Operations. The funds of takaful would be segregated and separate accounts would have to be maintained under the window takaful operations.
